DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

312 Cedarcroft Road is an example of the Neo-Colonial Revival. It is two stories tall, five bays wide, is rectangular in plan, with a minimum of minor projections, and has a strictly symmetrical facade. The exterior is set in Flemish bond, the lintels are gauged flat arches, and the sills are header bond. The gabled roof is decorated with three gabled dormers and chimneys on either side, thus adding to the symmetry. Dormer windows are round arched. The double hung windows of the first and second stories have 8/8 and 6/6 lights respectively, and all are decorated with shutters. The main central entrance is characteristically detailed with an arched fanlight and side panels. The portico to the left is supported by Doric columns and has an open walk atop. Four windows, two of ten lights and two of fifteen lights, are encased in the one story extension to the right. This extension also has an open walk.

312 Cedarcroft Road is located within the middle-to-upper class community of Cedarcroft.
